A map showing the Maryland-Ditchon Hills area. The map includes the state border with Maryland, the Ditchon Hills, and the R. Potomac. The text "Maryland" is written vertically along the border, "Ditchon Hills" is written horizontally across the hills, and "R. Potomac" is written vertically along the river. The word "Mon" is also visible at the top right.

A small, detailed map showing a river flowing from the south towards the north. The river is labeled 'Broadwater' along its southern bank. On the northern bank, the name 'Waldon' is written. The map also shows a 'ridge' line running across the top and some terrain features like hills and a small dam or bridge structure.

A small map showing the Harswold Canal and the Black Tom River. The canal is a narrow waterway connecting the river to the south. The river flows generally eastward. The map includes labels for 'Black Tom' and 'Harswold'.

A small, detailed map of the Tampa Bay area, showing the Hillsborough River, the city of Tampa, and the city of St. Petersburg. The map is oriented vertically, with the Hillsborough River flowing from the south into the bay. Tampa is located on the western shore of the bay, and St. Petersburg is located on the eastern shore. The map includes several smaller rivers and streams tributary to the Hillsborough.
